

KENNETH BALL CATALOGUE 165

This is not a complete stock list. It is a small selection of rare, out of print, elusive and interesting publications from my archives.

I take pride in helping to build collections, reference libraries and archives on a particular model or marque. Do please let me know your interest and I will see what I can find for you.

I am always interested in buying items in my subject.

Valuation undertaken. I undertake valuations for insurance, probate, family division or any other purpose. I have valued many collections and libraries including Royal Automobile Club, Vintage Sports Car Club, Veteran Car Club, Pozzoli Archives, etc.

All items are in English unless otherwise stated. DJ signifies Dust Jacket present. CCDJ signifies Colour Copy Dust Jacket present. Dimensions are overall height x width in inches.

PAYMENT

With order please.

All my prices include careful packing, surface postage (except possibly for heavy items to far away places when I will quote extra). All despatches are fully insured.

Airmail can be quoted extra.

This business operates by mail, by phone (mornings) and email. Customers may, of course, visit but please only by arrangement.

I give full attention to all orders but to ensure the best and most efficient service please state your Visa or Mastercard debit or credit card number and the expiration date. I also need the security number which is the last 3 numbers on the reverse of your card above the signature strip.

I am reluctant to, but will, accept payment by bank transfer or cheque. These involve extra clerical work and delay. Also I have to drive six miles to my bank!

Please use email if possible.

This one completely hit the spot. It tasted of iron and granite, like it had been raised on Emily Dickinson poetry, and had a cool thickness to it that seemed to match the London fog coiling around the streetlamps outside my window. But it also contained, somehow, tendrils of hope, like snowdrops pushing through frozen earth. VICTORIA MOORE's wine column, Daily Telegraph

During a visit to my doctor, I asked him, 'How do you determine whether an older person should be put in an old age home?' 'Well,' he said, 'we fill up a bathtub, then we offer a teaspoon, a teacup and a bucket to the person to empty the bathtub.' 'Oh, I understand,' I said. 'A normal person would use the bucket because it is bigger than the spoon or the teacup.' 'No,' he said. 'A normal person would pull the plug. Do you want a bed near the window?' JOHN DAVIES

Many small businesses don't even know they are even obliged to pay for having the radio on. Earlier this year Mick Collinson and Jeff Parkins, self-employed mechanics working at a garage in Scarborough, North Yorkshire, were cold-called by a Phonographic Performance Ltd agent. When the agent heard the radio playing in the background, he told the pair they had to pay £139 a year for the privilege, and also needed a Performing Rights Society licence which would cost another £43. The two men now work in silence.

A GROSS EXAGGERATION

Neutral 3 Anyone know what happened to the Autobooks Workshop Manual series by Kenneth Ball?

I always found these manuals very good, with an easy to clean cover, a colour photo of the particular model (the E Type one was excellent) easy to follow and well illustrated and far far better than "the other manual" that has somehow got a strangle hold on workshop manuals now.

Niagra I've got loads in the shed. If you're after a particular one, I can have a look.

Neutral 3 Yes, I could do with a Sunbeam Rapier Series IV 1965 Model Workshop Manual.

Kimducati It's close but it's not quite right – same name, different company. Used to know the family 10+ years ago. If I recall correctly, the Autobooks series were bought out by (the vastly inferior) Haynes Publishing. Mr Ball was certainly still around at that time, but as I said, 10+ years ago, so this could well have changed. Kim Neutral 3 The Autobooks range was very comprehensive and seemed to cover nearly every 60s car. I'm guessing that maybe Kenneth Ball has passed away.

Ophelia – Roland Biermann

The concepts of disharmony and dissonance in the continuum of human existence are central themes in Ophelia, one of Biermann's latest projects, where he is exploring the contrapuntal relationship between beauty, death and transience, through a delicately crafted set of Warholian photographic representations of plastic carrier bags floating in a sea of used engine oil. From the German Embassy newsletter

The newest post is an announcement headed "Conscious Uncoupling" that begins: "It is with hearts full of sadness that we have decided to separate." What else? They ask for their privacy to be respected as they "consciously uncouple and co-parent." Conscious uncoupling – it sounds like something she made up. Apparently it's a thing. She has also posted a long treatise on the subject from Dr Habib Sadeghi and Dr Sherry Sami. So how is it different from a normal, completely acrimonious separation?" "Conscious uncoupling brings wholeness to the spirits of both people who choose to recognise each other as their teacher. If they do, the gift they receive from their time together will neutralise the negative internal object that was the real cause of their pain in the relationship. OK. But who gets the car?"

A couple from a circus who go to an adoption agency where officials are doubtful about their accommodation. They produce photographs of their 15-metre-long caravan in which the back half is a magnificently equipped nursery. But what about education for a child whose family is permanently on the move? "We have employed an Oxford don who will teach the child all the main subjects, plus Mandarin Chinese and IT skills." But, they persist, what about health? "Our full-time nanny is also an expert in paediatric welfare and diet." The agency is happy and ask the couple what age of child they were looking for. "It doesn't really matter," they say, "so long as he fits into the cannon."
